1.1.1 - The Institution ensures effective curriculum delivery through a well planned and documented process

An academic calendar is prepared by the institute at the beginning of each academic year in line with the University's calendar. The calendar is uploaded on institute website, displayed on notice boards and is communicated to teachers and students. All the classes and examinations are planned as per the calendar, thus ensuring complete adherence. Timetable Coordinator of each department prepares the time table as per academic calendar and university curriculum for the number of credit hours for each subject prior to the start of the semester.

This lesson plan is duly approved by the Director of institute. Director maintains a monthly monitoring report on course coverage, student attendance and assignment provided for every subject. Internal Sessional Examinations dates are mentioned in the academic calendar. Detailed Examination schedule is announced prior to one week from the scheduled dates of respective examinations. The question papers of internal sessional exams are prepared by concerned faculty members. The answer papers are evaluated and shown to students to ensure transparent and unbiased evaluation. In case of unseen conditions, the institute academic calendar is modified and revised as per the instructions of Director of the Institute.

Ensuring effective curriculum delivery is crucial for the success of any educational institution. Here's how an institution might achieve this through a well-planned and documented process:

1. Curriculum Design and Development:- The institution starts by designing and developing a curriculum that aligns with its educational goals, objectives, and standards. This process involves input from subject matter experts, faculty members, and educational specialists to ensure relevance, coherence, and rigor.
2. Learning Outcomes Definition:- Clear learning outcomes are defined for each course or program, specifying what students should know, understand, and be able to do upon completion. These outcomes serve as a guide for curriculum delivery and assessment.
3. Instructional Design:- Instructional designers work with faculty members to design engaging and effective learning experiences that promote active learning, critical thinking, and skill development. This may involve selecting appropriate instructional methods, resources, and technologies.

Ref. No. : IOMS/Resource/Allocation:- The institution allocates resources, including faculty time, instructional materials, equipment, and facilities, to support curriculum delivery effectively. This may involve scheduling classes, assigning teaching loads, and securing necessary resources. Date

5. Monitoring and Evaluation:- The institution establishes mechanisms for monitoring and evaluating curriculum delivery to ensure alignment with learning outcomes and quality standards. This may involve classroom observations, student feedback surveys, peer reviews, and course evaluations.
6. Feedback and Reflection:- Faculty members collect feedback from students and peers on their teaching practices and use this feedback to reflect on their performance and make improvements. This iterative process helps enhance curriculum delivery over time.
7. Documentation and Review:- Curriculum delivery processes, including lesson plans, teaching materials, assessments, and student performance data, are documented and regularly reviewed for effectiveness and compliance with institutional policies and standards.

By following a systematic and well-documented process for curriculum delivery, the institution can ensure that students receive high-quality education that prepares them for success in their academic and professional pursuits.
